| i) Page details | Only the numbers; “p.” is only to be used as a “separator”, i.e. if a series of figures would cause confusion. |

Examples

Erich ZÖLLNER, Geschichte Österreichs, 8th edition, Vienna 1990, 234.

Peter HERSCHE, Der Spätjansenismus in Österreich (Committee for the History of Austria Publication, 7) Vienna 1977, 67 et seq.

Die Traditionen des Hochstiftes Freising Vol. 1 (ed. Theodor Bitterauf, Quellen und Erörterungen zur bayerischen Geschichte NF 4) Munich 1905, Note 1045; p. 788.

See the section on “subsequent citations”.

2. Supplement for contributions in journals and non-autonomous works

- a) Title of the contribution
- b) Title of the journal Separated from the accompanying text by the word "in"
- c) Details of the editor of collected editions Flexible

Example

Ernst KLEBEL, Von den Edlingern in Kärnten, in: Archiv für vaterländische Geschichte und Topographie 28 (1942) 35-78.

3. Subsequent citations

- a) If a list of references is attached to the work:
 - Author's family name Not emphasised by small caps; state initial of first name in the case of identical family names.
 - Brief title of work The brief title can be the meaningful word. Short titles usual in the relevant field should be used.
 - Details of volume
 - Page details

- b) If a list of references is not attached to the work, the above details of the reference "(as note ...)" are to be added to the first citation.

The punctuation for the citations should be used flexibly as appropriate.

Example

Traditionen Freising Note 1045; 1, 788. (cf. first citation)

4. List of references

The citations in the list of references are treated like first citations, except that the family name precedes the given name.

5. Publications in foreign languages

Since most academic communities outside the German-speaking world (must) comply with generally applicable citation rules, it is suggested that the citation rules applicable in the foreign language in question be applied in foreign language publications of the Philosophical and Historical Class.

6. Citing digital documents

For citations of digital content there are 2 options:

a) If available a Digital Object Identifier (DOI) can be used. DOIs are – like ISBN numbers – assigned by the Press

Example

TILLMAN Bub, Barbarei und Zivilisation in Grillparzers Trilogie „Das goldene Vließ“
SPRACHKUNST, Jg. XXXV/2004, 1. Halbband, 1–22, Wien 2004 doi:10.1553/spk35s1

b) By indicating the Hyperlink and the date of last access

Example: Article of a journal

ANDREA KIENLE, THOMAS HERRMANN
Integration von Kommunikation und Kooperation an Hand von Lernmaterial – ein Leitbild für die Funktionalität kollaborativer Lernumgebungen, Stuttgart 2002
