

Contents

Vincent ELTSCHINGER and Helmut KRASSER
Foreword	vii
•
Peter SKILLING
The tathāgata and the long tongue of truth – The authority of the Buddha in sūtra and narrative literature.	1
Joseph WALSER
On Buddhists and their chairs	49
Vincent ELTSCHINGER
Turning hermeneutics into apologetics – Reasoning and rationality under changing historical circumstances	71
Helmut KRASSER
Dignāga on air or How to get hold of supersensible objects by means of a credible person – With preliminary remarks on the composition of the Pramāṇasamuccaya	147
Shinya MORIYAMA
On the role of abhyupagama in Dharmakīrti’s scripturally based inference	183
Sara McCLINTOCK
Kamalaśīla and Śāntarakṣita on scripture and reason – The limits and extent of “practical rationality” in the Tattvasaṃgraha and Pañjikā	209
Kei KATAOKA
Transmission of scripture – Exegetical problems for Kumārila and Dharmakīrti	239

Hugo DAVID
Action theory and scriptural exegesis in early Advaita-Vedānta (1) – Maṇḍana Miśra on upadeśa and iṣṭasādhana	271
Piotr BALCEROWICZ
The authority of the Buddha, the omniscience of the Jina and the truth of Jainism	319
Isabelle RATIÉ
On reason and scripture in the Pratyabhijñā	375
RAFFAELE TORELLA
Inherited cognitions: prasiddhi, āgama, pratibhā, śabdana – Bhartrhari, Utpaladeva, Abhinavagupta, Kumārila and Dharmakīrti in dialogue.	455
	•
Notes on the contributors	481